DIFFERENT THEORIES WHY QUAIL ARE FEW

The Recent Dry Summer Is Blamed by Many.

There were a large number of hunters in the field on Thanksgiving day and almost without exception, the different parties report a scarcity of quail. There are several theories offered in explanation of this condition. One is that owing to the unusually dry summer, the quail did not breed as well as they generally do. Another is that the closed season was not well observed and that a good deal of shooting was done when the quail were rearing their young. Whatever may be the cause, the fact remains that there is very little quail shooting anywhere near Tempe this year. Where there were thousands of quail a year ago there are very few this year.

INDIAN SUFFERS A BROKEN ARM

Fell From a Load of Hay and a Bale
Fell on Top of Him.

There was at least one resident of the Salt River reservation who had little cause to be thankful on Thursday. The day before he met with a painful and serious accident. While hauling a load of hay he slipped from the top of the load and a bale of hay fell on top of him, striking him on the arm and shoulder and badly fracturing the arm above the elbow. The break was an unusually bad one and Dr. Alexander of this place was called to the reservation to give the sufferer medical attention.

At the hour of writing, yesterday afternoon the annual tennis tournament was in progress at the normal. The schools represented this year are the university, from Tucson; the Evans school from Mesa; the Indian school, of Phoenix; and the normal. It is probable that the concluding games of the tournament will be played today. The visitors were entertained last evening at a dance in the gymnasium, given by the Normal Tennis association.

The Important Problem

confronting anyone in need of a laxative is not a question of a single action only, but of permanently beneficial effects, which will follow proper efforts to live in a healthful way, with the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, whenever it is required, as it cleanses the system gently yet promptly, without irritation and will therefore always have the preference of all who wish the best of family laxatives.

The combination has the approval of physicians because it is known to be truly beneficial, and because it has given satisfaction to the millions of well-informed families who have used it for many years past.

To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

MESA

MESA PRECAUTIONS AGAINST FROST

The Orange Growers Have Varying Ideas.

At least some of the young orange trees planted in the Mesa section last spring, will survive the frost of the coming winter is assured by the variety and warmth of the various garments with which they are dressed. It is also an assured fact that if there is any assured method of protecting young trees from the frost one or more of the Mesa growers will have discovered it, providing of course that there happens to be a frost of sufficient severity to demonstrate the fact.

J. L. Waring believed that tight lacing is conducive to keeping out frost. He is not, to the keeping in of the heat already there. Mr. Waring has trimmed all of his trees until they have taken on the form of the proverbial slender maiden. To further carry out the idea he has dressed them with corn stalks, tied together at the bottom giving the effect of the "hobble skirt." Again at a point midway between the top and bottom a tight string gives each tree the appearance of the classic slender waist; the last cord tied around a place representing the neck is sufficiently tight to keep Jack Frost from descending through the top. The other thing necessary to make the grove look like twenty acres of young maidens would be a bonnet placed upon each head.

Jack Fraser although a bachelor, thinks he knows more about colds than Mr. Waring who is a married man, and believes that Mr. Waring has only partially dressed his young trees. Mr. Fraser believes in addition to the outer garments, as used on the Waring grove, the tender young trees would be better protected from the frost by wearing under garments. For this purpose he has wrapped each trunk with a newspaper and then tied the corn stalks outside of that. Instead of placing a tight collar around the neck, Mr. Fraser has left the windpipe open for winter breathing, and when the thermometer gets sufficiently low his men will pack sawdust into the throat of each tree thereby preventing Jack Frost traveling down along the trunk.

Donald McQueen, coming as he does, from rugged old Scotch stock, believes that the best way to keep out the cold, so Donald takes a gunny sack, cuts off the bottom to give the effect of a skirt and draws one of these over the head of each tree, and then in order to make the skirt stick out at the bottom he has his "Mexican Kitties" go over the grove and stuff each skirt with straw.

Mrs. Ridberg has very sensibly wrapped the trunks of her trees with paper, then applied the gunny sack and over all wrapped corn fodder, believing that if there is anything at all in the ideas of the others, by using a little of each, she can get what benefit there is to be derived.

The Palmer brothers who perhaps have given more real thought to the question than any of the others, believe that nature provides everything that is necessary to protect young orange trees against frost in the Salt River valley. They are depending entirely upon the dormant condition of their trees for the protection of the tops and the trunk has been enclosed in a mound of dirt. In this condition the trunks are absolutely safe and the chance of losing the tops is small.

Jack Lovell has wrapped each trunk with burlap banking it up for a few inches from the ground with dirt and outside of this dropped a skirt after the manner of Donald McQueen.

Of course, the desirable thing is not to have a frost at all but if a frost does come it is hoped that the orange growers of this section will have learned of the proper method of protecting young trees and in future winters will use more uniformity in their method of protection.

OUR HATS ARE OFF TO THE MESA HIGH SCHOOL.

The Mesa boys and girls are all wearing that smile; the smile that few can wear. After the Thanksgiving game they can now sit back and claim the championship. The Indians played a good game and it does seem selfish for Mesa to carry off all the honors, but she never failed to show her colors. All her decisions were fair. To an outsider the game showed a good spirit among the teams, which is one of the essentials that make an up-to-date school.

HE WAS "KING OF THE AIR"

New York—"They'll call me the king of the air before I quit," said Ralph Johnstone one night last August at Ashbury Park, "before I'm killed I'll show the world that America can breed aviators."

It is a scant three months since Ralph Johnstone, buoyant, ambitious, full of enthusiasm for the new game into which he had plunged, told of those plans for demanding the attention of the world. A week ago he was dashed to death at Denver while trying one of the devil's stunts for which he was famous, but in three months he had become the foremost aviator of America, and in the minds of many the foremost aviator.

His first public appearance was made at Interlaken, near Ashbury Park, on August 19. His first flight there was his eighteenth trip into the air. He had made only seventeen trial trips at Dayton before being sent to Interlaken, and the three months that had elapsed before his death he set a new mark in aviation. When he would have done had he lived another year only Wilbur or Orville Wright can suggest or imagine but it is known that his ambitious plans contemplated a series of aerial exhibitions such as no other man now flying will dare attempt to carry into effect.

It has been said of Ralph Johnstone that when he died he was at the zenith of his fame. Had he lived longer the zenith would have been higher. He was just beginning to learn the possibilities of the Wright biplane. On October 21, the last day of the Belmont meet, he crowned all previous achievements by driving a "Baby

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was troubled with falling and inflammation, and the doctors said I could not get well unless I had an operation. I knew I could not stand the strain of one, so I wrote to you sometime ago about my health and you told me what to do. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I am to-day a well woman."—Mrs. WILLIAM ARNOLD, 255 W. 21st St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Wright" up to 5,714 feet. "If you haven't reached ten thousand feet in half an hour come down," said Wilbur Wright. "We will change the carburetor and give Hoxsey a chance."

But Johnstone did not come down. He knew that it was the last day of the meet and the last chance to win that added prize for the ten thousand feet record, but he also knew that no matter how many changes they might make in the carburetor Mr. Hoxsey would never make the record. He kept on doggedly, although the mixture was almost worthless in the thin air of the higher altitude.

He fought on minute after minute, dropping at times three hundred feet into the "holes" with which the air is filled at that height and battling obstinately against a score of odds. That day he reached nine thousand feet in half an hour. It cost an hour of labor to make that last 714 feet.

His barograph showed how he had dropped with startling suddenness time after time on striking into a stratum of thin air, but he had kept on until his gasoline ran out, and then there was nothing for him to do but to come drifting down to earth in the most startling swooping glide ever seen on an aviation field. That wild dash downward will always be remembered by those who stayed to see it that last day of the Belmont Park meet.

It was a feat that set Johnstone's name high above those of all other American aviators, but it had cost heavily in nerve force spent in suffering. When Johnstone reached the earth and started toward the Wright tent he could scarcely talk; to talk coherently was impossible. It was 15 minutes before he was able to pull "De nap, sah."

himself together. Then in the little restaurant back of the hangars, he told simply and with no play of imagination, the story of his flight into the highest regions ever penetrated by a heavier than air machine.

"There are two kinds of aviators," Ralph Johnson said one night at Ashbury Park. "There's Wilbur and Orville Wright. They have developed these machines and they have flown in them many times, but neither of them will ever break any records in them. They are the creators of the machines. I am in another class. I find these aeroplanes ready to be used for my purpose just as I found the bicycle. I couldn't invent either a bicycle or an aeroplane, but I can use them, and use them better than the men who made them. Moreover, I can go on and on in discovering new methods of controlling and handling them, because I have the vaudeville performer's instinct."

The Nacozari Consolidated Copper Co.

The property of the Nacozari Consolidated joins with the great Pinar Mine in Sonora. The ore body on which the Pinar Mines is working is the largest copper ore body known to exist on the American continent. This ore body extends in a southeasterly direction from Pinar, and the Nacozari Consolidated has over fifty acres of ground located on this extension. Nine parallel veins of lead-silver ore, junctioning with the big copper ore body, give to the Nacozari Consolidated an almost unlimited amount of ore to be developed.

A tunnel, already in 450 feet, will cut the first of these silver veins at a depth of about 250 feet, and this same tunnel will ultimately cut the copper ore at a depth of over 800 feet below the surface. Work is being pushed as fast as possible, and it will be only a short time until the property is self supporting.

In order to install machinery for the much quicker development of the property, the company offers a small amount of its treasury stock for sale at $1.00 A SHARE.

Only five thousand shares will be sold at this price and they will not last long. The company is without indebtedness, has absolute titles to its 165 acres of ground, and all the money received from the sale of its stock goes toward the development of the property. The company's stock will soon be off the market and that of the stockholders will be greatly enhanced over the present price.
